

Woodburn, c.1830

| Dates | Owners |
|----------------|--|
| c.1830 - 1852 | Charles Cotesworth Pinckney of Charleston (1789 - 1865) Son of Gen. Thomas Pinckney, grandson of Charles Cotesworth Pinckney (1699-1758) Lt. Gov. of SC (1832-1834) Built house at Woodburn Plantation as a summer retreat Wife: Phoebe Caroline Elliott |
| 1852 - 1853 | David S. Taylor Wife: Lucy Hannah Taliaferro |
| 1853 - 1859 | Rev. John Bailey Adger (1810 - 1899) Presbyterian Minister & Missionary Son of James Adger, owner of shipping company in Charleston (James Adger & Co.) Wife: Elizabeth K. Shrewsbury |
| 1859 - 1881 | Joseph Ellison Adger of Charleston (1824 - 1889) Charleston Businessman Younger brother of Rev. John B. Adger Wife: Susan Cox Johnson |
| 1881 - 1911 | Augustine Thomas Smythe (1842 - 1914) Lawyer and a founding partner in Charleston law firm of Smythe and Smythe, 1866 Son of Margaret Milligan Adger and Rev. Thomas Symth, pastor of Second Presbyterian Church of Charleston Nephew of John B. & J. Ellison Adger Wife: Louisa McCord, granddaughter of Langdon Cheves Member of SC Senate 1890's, Trustee of Clemson College 1900-1906 |
| 1911 - 1930 | William Frederick Calhoun Owen of Greenville |
| 1930 | S. C. State Bank of Greenville |
| 1930 - c.1938 | John Frank Later incorporated as Woodburn Farms, Inc., Virginia Frank Neff, Pres. Then returned to private ownership of John Frank |
| 1939 - 1954 | U. S. Government: Resettlement Administration / Land Policy Section of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration Under long-term lease to Clemson College |
| 1954 - 1966 | Clemson University |
| 1966 - 1972 | Foundation for Historic Restoration in the Pendleton Area Name later changed to the Pendleton Historic Foundation |
| 1972 - 1983 | Pendleton District Commission |
| 1983 - Present | Foundation for Historic Restoration in the Pendleton Area Now the Pendleton Historic Foundation |

Ashtabula, c. 1825

| Dates | Owners |
|----------------|---|
| c. 1790 | Original four-room , two-story brick house build on land granted to Thomas Lofton. Later owned by the Gassaway family and operated as a tavern. |
| 1825 - 1837 | Large clapboard house build by Lewis Ladson Gibbes of Charleston Wife: Maria Drayton of Drayton Hall in Charleston. Her mother was a Middleton. Both died before new house has completed Children continued to occupy house under guardianship of two oldest sons, Lewis Reeves Gibbes and later Charles Drayton Gibbes. |
| 1837 - 1851 | Dr. Oze R. Broyles, moved to Anderson Wife: Saran Ann Taliaferro |
| 1851 - 1861 | James T. Latta enlarged the house to present size and increased acreage Wife: Angela Lott of NJ |
| 1861 - 1865 | Robert Adger for daughter Clarissa W. Bowen and husband O. A. Bowen O. A. Bowen later purchased Rivoli Farm near Pendleton from Robert Adger |
| 1865 - 1880 | William Dalton Warren Wife: Sarah E. Adger, daughter of Robert Adger Converted acreage to model dairy farm, J. C. Stribling, Mgr. |
| 1880 - 1889 | Francis J. Pelzer, founder of Pelzer Mills Absentee landlord, J. C. Stribling, Manager |
| 1889 - 1920 | John Linley of Anderson, real estate developer. Relatives lived at Ashtabula. |
| 1920 - 1940 | Roger Inglesby originally from Charleston |
| 1940 - 1957 | Frederick W. Symmes of Greenville, textile industrialist and philanthropist. Purchased Ashtabula to preserve the house. Last individual owner |
| 1957 - 1961 | Mead Paper Co. Operated as tree farm / Gave house to Foundation and sold surrounding land to other paper companies. |
| 1961 - Present | Foundation for Historic Restoration in the Pendleton Area |